

Befriend Again

Oh my dear where is that friend!

Have you ever turned it around and thought.

We never judged by how you appeared.

We loved and wanted to play with you like with others.

We teased everyone here and played with every one.

It's only you, who misunderstood the innocent wandering minds.

It's only you who choose to be alone, despite us being on your side.

On your way back home,

We followed you, teasing in disguise.

So that you reach safe my friend,

in health and more in thought to be precise.

Always wanting to learn from you, the lovely language of speech.

Learning to express life, in the lovely stanzas to suffice.

We failed to impress you and never could make a friend.

We always admired you, your lovely ways to express

Everyone my dear, here has a flaw.

Some are visible to all and some,

Hidden beneath the flawless skinny mask.

Hunch back is nothing in the world full of reckless minds.

We hope to befriend you some day.

In the path of life where we met before, hope to meet again.